Thank you for taking the time to chaperone a field trip to the Seattle Aquarium! Please remember that your priority is student safety. It is your responsibility to be with your student group at all times while at the Aquarium. These guidelines are designed to keep your group safe, foster learning and help everyone have fun!

Student code of conduct:

O – One gentle finger when touching animals.
R – Respect other guests, Aquarium staff/volunteers and the space (no climbing or unsafe behavior).
C – Caring Cove is off-limits to school groups.
A – Adults must stay with their group of students at all times.
S – Share what you learned.

Field trip tips:

Stay with your students at all times.

Eat your lunch along the east wall adjacent to the touch pools, or outside if the weather permits.

Recycle, compost and/or throw away your waste in the appropriate bins.

Due to capacity issues, Caring Cove is off-limits to school groups.

When exploring, be mindful and respectful of other visitors, and please do not climb on the habitats.

Touch the animals in the touch pool habitat gently with one finger.

If you are registered for a classroom program, your instructor will meet you at the bottom of the green stairs five minutes before your program is scheduled to begin.

Field trip date: ________________________________

Your schedule:

Lunch time = _________________________ Departure time = _________________________

Your students are:

1. ________________________________
2. ________________________________
3. ________________________________
4. ________________________________
5. ________________________________
6. ________________________________